Additional information:

The Zoom video conference room is “open” a quarter of an hour before the start to test the microphones and cameras and settings, and possibly to install the Zoom app and to try out the settings. We will use the waiting room function to manage the participants. Colleagues who do not speak will be asked to turn off their camera and micro. Comments and requests to speak will be managed through the chat function. The person who speaks turns on the micro and camera (if available). The conference will be recorded and shared with other project partners who could not attend or have technical difficulties to join the virtual event.
